The Federal Government Past Performance Information Retrieval System (PPIRS)

The PPIRS is a web-enabled, enterprise application that provides timely and pertinent contractor past performance information to the Department of Defense and Federal acquisition community (i.e., Civilian Agencies) for use in making source selection decisions.

Go to the PPIRS Website

Background:

PPIRS applies to military and civilian agency Best Value, Source Selection Evaluations for award.

A federal government member of the Source Selection Team has to be certified and have a password to access the PPIRS.

Contractors cannot directly input past performance history into the PPIRS program.

The DOD Contractor Performance Assessment System (CPARS) Chart is attached (i.e., DOD-Civilian Dollar thresholds when the PPIRS program applies to Best Value requirements for products-services)

CPARS Threshold Chart
